Webinar: Power & Renewables Technology – the Game Changers

This webinar will highlight five key technologies that have the potential to significantly impact the power and renewables industry over the next 10 years. While these emerging technologies are at different stages of maturity, they would all have a transformative impact on the industry if successfully brought to commercialisation or if they achieved greater penetration via higher cost-competitiveness and improved business models. These technologies include: clean coal technology, small modular nuclear reactors, virtual power plants, floating offshore wind turbines and battery storage.
