Problem Solvers

A client sought to align its multi-country coverage with a single point of contact for claims.

AIG worked with the client over three years to build upon the foreign casualty relationship and added a controlled master Business Travel Accident program.

The client was able to have a single point of contact for claims and benefitted from AIG's enhanced claims management system.

Creative Solutions

The client was looking for multiple lines of business coverage during a challenging renewal.

AIG worked across the organization to provide the client with the desired coverage, along with standalone Business Travel Accident insurance.

By communicating strategy and renewal changes early on, AIG further solidified this broker and client relationship and found a solution that met the client's needs.

Claims Expertise

A frequent business traveler lost some items during air travel. The client contacted AIG to file a claim and was pleased with the handling of the matter, describing the entire process as "flawless."
