HVTT (High Value Theft Targeted) is defined as cargo which is high value, can be handled without great difficulty, and can be sold on the illicit market. There are three levels of HVTT cargo. The list of examples for each HVTT level presented below can help you to determine the level of cargo you may have. Note: Setting the HVTT level requires consideration of the type of cargo and the risk presented from the countries in the route and the circumstances of transport or storage.
