

Worker Safety eLearning

eLearning

Company-wide training programs:

We have developed a suite of innovative online worker safety eLearning resources for AIG policyholders.

Wide-ranging capabilities that reduce a client's total cost of risk

Company-wide training potential

AIG provides liability policy holders with access to a web-based system that provides access to training, best practices and more, to help improve their risk management practices. This gives our clients the ability to implement company-wide best practice training programs on workplace health and safety as well as fleet safety and regulatory compliance.

AIG's clients can access an extensive and growing library of video and downloadable materials in different areas, and some in a variety of languages.

Monitoring and tracking performance

Administrators can easily assign training to employees and monitor progress. All training videos include quizzes to test understanding and provide clients with an audit trail for compliance purposes, including which employees have successfully completed which modules with the dates and scores.

Flexible and cost effective

Mobile versions of these resources are available free on the Apple iOS and Android App Stores, enabling training to be taken any time and place. This means that staff can learn flexibly at their own convenience while significantly reducing clients' costs of health and safety training.

Showcasing our capabilities through Success Stories

Company-wide training program

A large regional engineering company needed to implement an employee safety training program with detailed recordkeeping for regulatory and compliance purposes. Client Risk Solutions provided access to RiskTool Advantage allowing the company access to a wide variety of worker safety topics, with a powerful integrated tracking and a reporting engine that provided detailed reports showing who took which courses, their quiz scores and printable certificates of completion.
